SIXTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY.

On March 31, 1907, Mrs. Mary F. Stevenson, the mother of Mrs. Hattie Cartwright, was 69 years old. Hence in commemoration of these three score and nine years, Mrs. Cartwright prepared for her mother an enjoyable entertainment. She threw open the doors of her residence on Patterson street from 4 to 9 p. m., and entertained appropriately the friends who came, which proved to be no small number. Mrs. Stephenson, while at this advanced age, is hale and hearty. She has a remarkable memory and can boast of being the mother of eight children, seven of whom are living and all married. Three of these reside in Columbia, Tenn., one in Chicago, Ill., one on the Harding Pike, one in Madisonville, Ky., and the other, Mrs. Cartwright, in Nashville. There are forty-two grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren. If the husbands of the daughters are to be counted, the family numbers seventy-one. Mrs. Stevenson feels proud of her family. One of her grandsons, a Mr. Caruthers, is now at Amherst College. The menu served for Sunday evening was enjoyed by all, and especially the Globe representative, who showed his appreciation by the amount he ate.

EASTER SERVICES.

Last Sunday morning Rev. Joseph Kiel, pastor of Zion Baptist Church, preached an able sermon taking as a text: "He is risen." At 3 o'clock Rev. B. A. Lanier preached, and at night the Sunday School rendered a very interesting program, which included an address by Mr. O. C. Brady, the Superintendent; solo, Miss Emma Rains; short talks by Sunday school teachers, and a solo, Miss Viola Hough. Miss Viola Baker, the organist, deserves much credit for the excellent music used in these services.

FELLOWSHIP AND CO-OPERATION.

fering, let me ask the question, Who can weigh and measure the aggregate of pain which this generation has endured, and will endure from birth to death? Then add to this all the pain which has fallen, and will fall upon our race, through centuries past and to come. But take the other view of it, think of the Nemesis which has over taken pain during the past fifty years. Anesthetics and antiseptic surgery, which are the chief weapons used in our hospitals, have almost manacled the demon; and since their introduction the aggregate of pain, which has been prevented, far outweighs in civilized communities that which has been suffered.

The greatest art is in the concealment of art, and I may say that we of the medical profession excel in this respect. You of the public who hear me, go about the duties of the day profoundly indifferent to the facts I have just mentioned. It is no idle challenge which we physicians, dentists, surgeons and trained nurses throw out to the world, when we claim that our mission is of the highest and noblest kind, not alone in curing diseases, but in educating the people in the laws of health and in preventing the spread of plagues and pestilences. With the addition of this years' class of noble young men and women, and the organization of medical, dental pharmaceutical and nurse training societies, and the establishment of modern Negro hospitals throughout the Southland, we may look forward for greater we may look forward for greater things in the near future. And finally, remember that we are useful supernumeraries in the battle, simply stage accessories in the drama, playing minor, but essential parts at the exits and entrances, or picking up, here and there, a strutter, who may have tripped upon the stage. You have been much by the dark river, so near to us all, and have seen so many embark, that the dread of the old boatman has almost disappeared, and—

"When the angel of the darker drink,"
At last shall find you by the river
brink,
And offering this cup—invite your soul, forth
To your lips to quaff—you shall not shrink.

Your past-port shall be the blessings of Him in whose foot steps you have trodden, unto whose sick you have ministered, and for whose children
you have cared.

It is then that we can realize the truthfulness of the poet that:

"Though the mills of God grind slowly,
Yet they grind exceeding small;
Still with patience He stands waiting,
With exactness, grinds He all."

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION.

The United Order of True Reformers, of which W. L. Taylor, of Richmond, is president, is to illustrate in a practical way the development of the Negro as a banker. They will erect a substantial building, and throughout the life of the Exposition, will have in full operation a model bank, with safe deposit attachment, staff of cashiers and tellers, and will handle the money of concessionaires, receive deposits from visitors and employees, and transact a regular banking business for all who may require such service.

Our people may congratulate themselves upon the happy location of the Negro Building. It is situated near the main entrance to the Exposition grounds, and faces the principal thoroughfares—the first and most conspicuous structure the visitor sees when he passes through the gates.

The North Carolina exhibit will be especially fine, perhaps the most elaborate of the state exhibits. The work from the North Carolina institution for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind will be worth traveling many miles to see. This comprehensive exhibit is due to the energetic labors of Dr. C. H. Hunter, Secretary of State Commission, and Field Agent C. H. Williamson. It will be remembered that the State of North Carolina appropriated the handsome sum of $5,000 to aid their progress re colored citizens in letting the world know how rapidly they are moving forward.

W. Sidney Pittman, who has been in Norfolk and at the Exposition grounds supervising the erection of the imposing structure he has designed is one of the leading architects in this country, irrespective of race or color. He is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, and of the Drexel School of Fine Arts at Philadelphia. The building is a classic structure, 213 by 129 feet, two stories in height, and cost $10,000. It will be in itself a monumental exhibit of the artistic and mechanical genius of the Negro people in America.

White force University and Hampton Institute will make displays that are sure to attract widespread attention.

MT. OLIVE CHURCH.

Mt. Olive Baptist Church has just closed a very successful revival, with sixty conversions. Rev. Wm. Moore, of Decatur, Ala., assisted the pastor, also Rev. J. Tally, one of the licensed ministers of the church. Rev. Mr. Moore is a young man, a preacher of rare ability, and a successful evangelist. The pastor baptized twenty-five souls on Easter Sunday; the remainder of the converts were baptized last night, and the hand of fellowship will be extended to them Sunday, April 7. The communion will be administered at 3 p. m. The church is in a splendid condition and should do a great deal for missions and education. The pastor is very desirous that the church will raise $200.00 for Roger Williams University. The plan will be announced Sunday. The church gave Rev. Mr. Moore $47.50 as a donation for his services with them two weeks, and extends thanks to the various churches who assisted in the meeting by their presence.

COUNTY FAIR.

Arrangements have been perfected to hold a County Fair by the colored people of this county this fall. The date will be given out later. The managers hope to make it a grand success. The exhibits will all be from this county, and the prizes will be liberal. It is being fostered by E. G. Bivens and others.
